

Family Mission Statement

What are your guiding principles for a family mission statement? Check the boxes as you create your own version of these ideas!

- Relentless hard work and purposeful execution
- Believe in each other, support and encourage
- Think big about what each can contribute and accomplish
- Responsibility to make the most of good fortune, blessings and skills
- Embrace challenges and adversity and know you can rise above it
- Manage risks and rewards – proven formula for success
- When you fail or fall short, retool and reload and aim high again
- Treat others with respect and live with integrity
- Cherish past, challenge future; build legacy
- Embrace our individual differences and optimize them
- The whole is greater than the sum of the parts
- Each day is a gift, approach it with gratitude
- Hold yourself and each other accountable; open, honest dialogue
- Care less what others think
- Form opinions based on fact and first hand observations
- What you have to say is important
- Listen to understand before speaking
- Live everyday with one eye on the future, making good choices
- Give yourself a break, don't be too hard on self, keep guilt in check
- Find some faith, nurture it, draw peace and joy from it
- Be guided by inner compass not external social media direction
- Protect these treasures
- Celebrate success
- This is dynamic; create it, improve it, own it
